DESCRIPTION

On the heights of Dourgne, with a remarkable view over the Tarn plain, lies this exceptional property. What a surprise to discover it, imposing and isolated, as soon as you step through the gates, time stops. This magnificent farmhouse immediately catches our eye, built in a half-U shape, it offers a wealth of possibilities.

The main entrance is via the east wing, where we are greeted by beautiful hydrangea beds. We cross the threshold and immediately fall under the spell of a living room comprising a 27m² dining room and a 15m² sitting room. The house has been tastefully renovated to a high standard, with terracotta floor tiles, exposed beams, a large fireplace and double-glazed wooden windows. The hallway then leads to the 23m² kitchen, which is perfectly equipped and functional, with a Godin piano under a vaulted ceiling and brickwork inside. This room is decorated in warm wood and olive green tones, a beautiful harmony, and opens onto the terrace to the rear, where you can enjoy unforgettable moments lulled by the melody of the water thanks to the small pool nearby. Still on the ground floor, there is a 19 m² half-timbered bedroom, a shower room, a toilet and a utility room.

This is followed by a huge 136 m² workshop that was previously a stable. This space houses the heating system: electric heat pump, as well as a wood-fired boiler if you wish. There is plenty of room for storage and conversion,...
