IN BRIEF

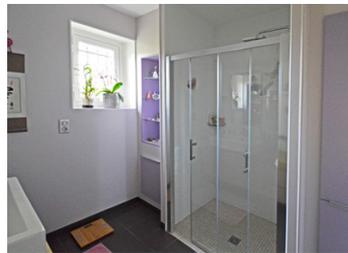

This house has a distinctive presence and is well seated high up in a mature and immaculately kept grounds. It was built in 1978 in the traditional Perigourdine way with no expense spared with solid stone walls, tiled or oak floors and stairs, a large carved stone fireplace and exposed oak joists in the bedrooms etc. The interior has a slight 18th century feel with its large drawing room and dining room combined with french windows on 2 sides opening onto terraces giving a sense of a house that is well established in its grounds yet the windows and doors are aluminium painted white, completely draught proof and geared to the elements. The bedrooms are airy and nice sized and the kitchen and bathrooms are smartly designed and up to date. There is a garage and vast basement below the house that stretches from wall to wall with interior...
