IN BRIEF

This property was already marked on the old cadastre Napoléon of 1831 but is considerably older with ancient stone features, fireplace stone sink and a well that gives this property an authentic charm. Both houses are beautifully restored throughout with up to date bathrooms and kitchens in each case. The property has a small courtyard between the houses and a lovely garden the other side with views across the hill. The cottage is semi detached to a larger property next door, but the courtyard cuts off the neighbours in a way that creates a sense of detached independence and privacy. This property is ideal as a house and granny annex or for those seeking to run a small gite business in the summer.
