IN BRIEF

Step into history with this cosy 17th-century stone house, once an olive oil mill. The well-preserved property exudes character and charm, with a generous 250 m² living space divided into two wings, connected by the mill's original paddle wheel, still partially preserved.

Nestled on a serene hill, it's a short 15-minute drive from Nice Côte d'Azur Airport and 20 minutes from the vibrant heart of Nice. The picturesque old village of Carros, part of the "Perched Villages" of the Côte d'Azur, is within 5 minutes by car.

The west wing's ground floor showcases a spacious 65 m² charming living room with the mill's old basin, press, a fire place, ceiling heights of >4m and a new modern kitchen with serene green views. The upper floor features four bedrooms, a bathroom, and a shower room.

DESCRIPTION

OVERVIEW:

Tucked away in the peaceful hills near Nice, this exceptional 17th-century stone residence offers a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to own a true piece of Côte d'Azur history. Originally built as an olive oil mill, the property has been lovingly restored and extended over the centuries to create a home that blends authentic architectural features with modern comfort. Facing south and nestled within over 6,000 m² of lush, wooded land, this rare estate offers complete privacy, natural beauty, and architectural heritage — all within easy reach of the French Riviera.

The property offers 253 m² of interior living space, divided into two interconnected wings: a main family residence and a secondary wing with two independent guest apartments, each fully equipped with their own kitchens and bathrooms. Ideal for use as a large family home or an income-generating chambre d'hôtes, this home retains exceptional character while offering functionality, flexibility, and serene rural luxury.

Additional assets include a beautiful fireplace in the main living room, solar thermal panels for hot water, underfloor heating, air conditioning, several interior and exterior cellars. A pool can also be added, subject to planning permission.

THE LAYOUT:

Total habitable surface: 253.29 m²

Plot of land: 6,000 m²

This rare property is distributed across two wings, interconnected via a central passage that retains the original paddle wheel of the former olive oil mill. Both wings form part of the same residence but function semi-independently, offering flexibility for family life, guest accommodation, or rental purposes.
