DESCRIPTION

This single-storey house has three bedrooms and a 72 m² cathedral lounge, bathed in light thanks to its high bay windows.

A heat pump ensures optimum thermal comfort all year round.

Upstairs, a mezzanine overlooking the living room provides additional space for relaxing or working, and the attic can be converted to suit your needs and desires.

Outside, you'll find an independent studio apartment, perfect for welcoming guests or for use as a work or leisure space. A large 260 m² stone barn offers endless possibilities for renovation or storage projects. The property also includes a swimming pool and terrace, ideal for enjoying fine weather and the tranquillity of the surrounding countryside.

To top it all off, solar panels have been installed, enabling the electricity produced to be sold on and the house's energy needs to be self-consumed.

This country house is a haven of peace, combining traditional charm with modern comforts, all in an unspoilt natural setting near Monflanquin.
