NOTES

Just a few kilometers from Doucy in the village of Chatelard you will find a decent supermarket, even closer is a laiterie selling delicious local cheeses and there are several restaurants in the area.

The Massif des Bauges is a protected mountain range, situated between Annecy, Chambéry and Aix-les-Bains, forming a natural border between the Savoie and Haute-Savoie departments. Its rugged limestone peaks, forests, alpine pastures and traditional villages are part of the Parc naturel régional du Massif des Bauges, known for hiking, wildlife and local gastronomy. The Bauges lie roughly 30 minutes from Annecy, about 45 minutes from Chambéry, and just over an hour from Geneva, making them easily accessible yet comparatively quiet and unspoiled. The area offers panoramic views towards Mont Blanc and the surrounding lakes, while maintaining a peaceful, rural character.
