IN BRIEF

This three bedroom bungalow is set in a small hamlet just 2.5 km from the village of Chalus, renowned as the site where Richard the Lionheart was fatally wounded.

The property enjoys a generous garden and offers the perfect blend of rural tranquillity with convenient access to local services.

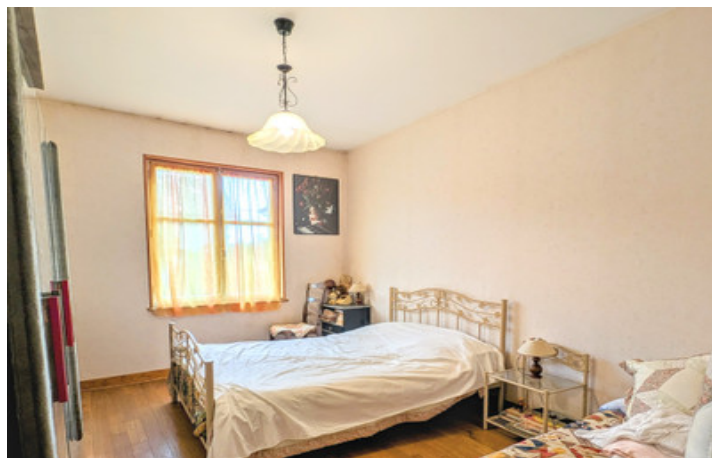

Chalus benefits from a weekly market and provides all essential amenities, including shops, restaurants, and healthcare facilities — making it an ideal location for a permanent residence or holiday home.

NOTES

DESCRIPTION

Originally two separate houses, this property now offers generous living space, including two kitchens (15.4 m² and 12 m²) and a bright, spacious lounge (20.2 m²).

There are three bedrooms (16 m², 13.8 m² et 12.4m²). One of the bedrooms features an en-suite shower room (3.5 m²) and a separate WC (1.6 m²). The other bedrooms have access to a bathroom (3.5 m²) with WC.

Additional features include two cellars and two attic spaces, providing ample storage or conversion potential.

The home is equipped with oil-fired central heating and secondary glazing.

Direct access to the rear garden is available from both the lounge and the main bedroom.

Externally, the property includes a small garage (15 m²) adjacent to the house. Opposite, there is a second garage (10 m²) with an adjoining workshop (20.4 m²).

A large barn (104 m²) is also included, along with a further small garden space to the rear.
