NOTES

DESCRIPTION

The house is located not far from Carentoir, in a quiet hamlet setting and is also not far from the very popular town of La Gacilly.

The charm of the old has been preserved, with exposed stone walls, beams, and character details.

The large living/dining room features a beautiful fireplace, in which a 'polyflam inertia' wood stove is installed; the hearth can therefore be used either closed or open, providing optimal heat distribution and the enjoyment of the flames. The open kitchen is fully equipped. Upstairs is a second living room. There is also a large bedroom, a bathroom with a shower and a bath, and a toilet. From this floor, a small staircase leads to another sleeping area on a mezzanine, large enough to accommodate a double bed.

On the ground floor, to the left of the fireplace, there is a (low) door providing access to the adjoining 'gîte'. A kitchen is the only thing missing to make this part of the house a completely independent space as it already has its own separate external access to this part. The room is very bright, with large sliding doors facing the south/garden side. The upper floor has a large room, overlooked by a mezzanine. The garden has established trees and flowering plants. You even have an outbuilding, with potential for use as a garage (door to be installed) or workshop/studio.
