DESCRIPTION

This well-presented home offers a comfortable and practical layout, making it ideal for family living or as a main residence with potential for further development.

Upon entering, you are welcomed into a bright and inviting living / dining area, enhanced by a modern wood-burning stove that provides both warmth and a cosy atmosphere. This space forms the heart of the home, perfect for everyday living and entertaining.

The kitchen is functional and conveniently arranged, offering a practical space for cooking and daily use. The ground floor also includes a study, which could easily be converted into a fourth bedroom if required, adding valuable flexibility to the layout.

A separate WC and a utility room complete this level. The utility room was created from the former integral garage and could be reconfigured to provide approximately 13 m² of additional habitable space, depending on your needs and plans.

Upstairs, a landing leads to three comfortable bedrooms, well suited to family life. A shower room with basin and shower, along with a separate WC, completes the first floor.

Externally, the property sits on a spacious 1,266 m² plot, offering excellent potential for landscaping, gardening, or outdoor leisure areas.

From a technical perspective, the property benefits from a good energy rating (Class C), with electric heating supported by a modern wood-burning stove. The windows are predominantly PVC double glazing, contributing to overall thermal efficiency, and insulation is generally adequate.

In addition, the property is equipped with a modern micro-station wastewater system installed in 2021, ensuring...
