IN BRIEF

The rarity of this character stone estate lies not only in the quality of its buildings, but in the increasingly rare combination of an authentic stone farmhouse, substantial outbuildings offering significant conversion potential and approximately 5,000 m² of land capable of supporting future development.

A complete heritage property, ready for immediate use yet offering considerable scope for further enhancement, set within a preserved and highly sought-after environment in the heart of a peaceful hamlet near Saint-Cyprien.

Ideally located close to the most renowned tourist attractions, as well as the many historic castles and listed villages that have earned the region its international reputation, the property enjoys an exceptional setting in the heart of the Périgord Noir.

DESCRIPTION

Nestled in a preserved and highly sought-after setting, this authentic stone farmhouse enjoys a privileged location within a charming hamlet, close to the village of Saint-Cyprien. It is ideally situated near the Dordogne's most renowned attractions, including the Vézère Valley, Sarlat-la-Canéda, Les Eyzies, Beynac, La Roque-Gageac, and the many historic castles and listed villages that have earned the region its international reputation.

Surrounded by countryside and enjoying a peaceful setting without being isolated, this remarkable property impresses from the very first glance with the exceptional quality of its traditional stone construction, carefully preserved over time. The generous volumes, harmonious architecture and consistency of the buildings create a rare environment where authenticity and potential blend seamlessly.

NOTES

A remarkable architectural heritage, the estate comprises several beautifully crafted stone buildings showcasing a level of construction quality that has become increasingly rare. Features include well-maintained roofs in excellent condition, traditional stone masonry, generous interior volumes, impressive ceiling heights beneath exposed roof structures, and a charming, intimate courtyard at the heart of the property.

The main house has already been renovated and is ready for immediate occupation, while still allowing the future owner to gradually develop the remainder of the estate.

An independent guest room has also been created within one of the outbuildings, already providing an initial hospitality capacity.

One of the property's greatest strengths lies in the scale of its outbuildings and in the substantial preparatory work already undertaken.
