DESCRIPTION

Originally constructed in 1983, the property has been extensively renovated and modernised, resulting in a home that is both highly functional and exceptionally comfortable. The quality of the improvements is immediately evident throughout, from the contemporary kitchen and bathrooms to the bright, welcoming living spaces and carefully maintained exterior areas. Of particular note is the property's excellent A/A energy rating, an increasingly rare and valuable feature for a home of this size, providing both environmental benefits and lower running costs.

The main residence has been thoughtfully designed to maximise natural light and take full advantage of the stunning views. At its heart lies an impressive double-height living area with exposed beams, generous glazing and direct access to the covered terrace, creating a wonderful sense of space and connection to the outdoors. A large fully equipped kitchen provides the ideal setting for everyday family life and entertaining alike, while the spacious master suite benefits from a dressing room and private bathroom. A further bedroom on the main level adds flexibility for guests or family members.

Upstairs, a substantial mezzanine overlooks the principal reception space and provides an ideal reading area, office or additional sitting room. Three further bedrooms, a shower room and a solarium complete this level, offering ample accommodation for larger families or visiting guests.

The self-contained apartment on the garden level is a significant asset. Comprising a living area with kitchenette, bedroom, sleeping area and shower room, it offers complete independence for extended family members, teenagers,...
