DESCRIPTION

Set in a quiet hamlet in the countryside around Lohuec (22160), this attractive property offers comfortable living with recent improvements already completed, making it an ideal home for either permanent residence or a peaceful retreat in rural Brittany.

The house offers just under 88 m² of living space, thoughtfully arranged to maximise comfort and practicality, and is set on over 3,000 m² of land. On the ground floor, you will find a fitted kitchen, a bright and welcoming lounge, a separate dining room/lounge and shower room providing a functional and well-balanced living layout.

Upstairs, a landing leads to three bedrooms. There is also attic space, offering additional storage or future development potential, subject to permissions.

Attached to the house is a practical utility room, adding valuable everyday functionality.

The property has benefited from significant recent improvements, including a recent roof, double-glazed windows, and shutters throughout, contributing to both comfort and efficiency. It holds a D-rated energy performance classification, a strong advantage for a property of this style in a rural setting. Heating is provided by a wood system, offering both charm and economical running costs.

Outside, the property enjoys a generous and natural setting. The garden is made up of a beautiful mix of trees, lawns, grassed areas, and shrubs, creating a private and green environment. A long private driveway leads to the house, enhancing the sense of seclusion.

In addition, the property benefits from numerous outbuildings, offering excellent storage space, workshop potential, or future conversion opportunities, subject to...
